THE 1996 VANGERMEERSCH MANUSCRIPT AWARD

The 1996 Richard G. Vangermeersch Manuscript Award is to be presented to Dr. Rachel Baskerville. The award is in recognition of her manuscript "The Telling Power of CCA—a New Zealand Oral History."

Dr. Rachel Baskerville is a lecturer at Victoria University in Wellington, New Zealand. Previously she worked as a Project Manager in the Department of Accounting and Professional Standards at the Institute of Chartered Accountants of New Zealand office in Wellington, New Zealand. She is a member of the College of Chartered Accountants and the treasurer of the National Oral History Association of

New Zealand.

Dr. Baskerville had completed doctoral studies, and taught anthropology in New Zealand before switching in 1990 to Accountancy. Her original specialization had been in the history of physical anthropology, human evolution and primate studies. Dr. Baskerville plans to continue studies focusing on the recent processes and events in accounting standard setting, such as the energetic debate in New Zealand on disclosure of director's remuneration, comparing this with similar requirements elsewhere. She is also studying the history and evolution of one large charity through its accounting processes.
